metacaulk® JOINT STRIP

When it comes to firestopping annular spaces, finding a solution that balances performance and cost-effectiveness is crucial. Rectorseal's Joint Strip offers an ideal answer, delivering reliable UL Listed fire protection systems in a versatile, easy-to-install format.

Joint Strip is specifically designed to address the unique challenges of sealing annular spaces around pipes, conduits, and cables that penetrate fire-rated assemblies. Its flexible design allows it to conform to irregular openings, ensuring a tight seal that maintains the fire resistance rating of walls and floors. Whether you're dealing with new installations or retrofitting existing spaces, Joint Strip adapts easily to a variety of scenarios.

One of the standout advantages of using Joint Strip is its cost-effectiveness. Unlike traditional wrap strip, our Joint Strip UL systems require less intumescent material, providing the same level of protection at a lower cost. This makes it an excellent choice for large-scale projects where budget considerations are paramount.

In addition to its initial cost benefits, the Joint Strip offers long-term durability, maintaining its integrity over time. This ensures that the system remains effective throughout the life of the building, providing ongoing protection and peace of mind.

For expert guidance on incorporating Joint Strip into your next project, Lowder Sales is here to help. Our team can assist you in selecting the right firestop assemblies to meet your specific needs and budget.
